Society Notices

The Students' Methodist Society has resumed its meetings at 4.00 p.m. on Sundays at Dorset Gardens Church (just off Old Steine). Tea at 4.00 p.m. followed by discussion. All interested are invited.

French Society. Will anyone interested in acting in, or helping with production or lighting in a French play, which it is hoped will be presented in the Summer Term, please contact Joy Need or Diana Dawes as soon as possible.

A party is being organised to attend a performance of La Guerre de Trois N'aura Pas Lieu by Jean Giraudoux, at the Institut Francais de Londres on Saturday, 26th January. Will anyone who would like a ticket (a railway party ticket is also available) please see Diana Dawes. Tickets 4/-, French Society members 3/-.

Sussex University Theatre. Membership cards for this term can be obtained from the far end of the Common Room on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday this week. Subscription remains 5/- per term. The term's programme includes a series of play readings with a view to choosing a play for the summer production. Suggestions to the President or Secretary please.

Closing date for copy for the Bulletin Monday, 4th February.
SENATE

Members of the Senate

The following have been elected to the Senate for 1963 by non-professorial members of faculty - Dr. L. Allen, Mr. J.F. Lively, Dr. E.R.A. Poelop, Dr. A.M. Ross. The following were elected to informal membership of the Senate - Mr. E.C. Donnan, Mr. E.D.R. Honderich, Mr. M.G. Hutt, Dr. W. Ledermann, Mr. M. Lipton, Dr. B.E. Supple, Dr. R.E. Turner.

Senate Discipline Committee

The following Instruction has been issued by the Proctors on the authority of the Senate Discipline Committee:

Undergraduates will appreciate that demonstrations, processions and etc., in the Town require the prior permission of the Police.

Before undergraduates approach the Police, they must discuss their intentions with the President of the Union who will, if necessary, discuss these with the Proctors.

SCHOOLS

School of Social Studies

Professor T. Barma was elected as representative of the School on the Academic Board and Dr. B.E. Supple as Secretary of the School.

Proposals were discussed for setting up two types of seminar. Some which are or will soon be running (for example on economics, politics, and the social services) will be primarily undergraduate seminars. It is hoped also to run a School seminar for Faculty members and graduate students at which outside speakers will present papers.

School of Engineering Sciences

Proposals are now under consideration that the scheme to have a School of Engineering Sciences should be modified by the inclusion of Applied Sciences in general.
FALMER HOUSE

Reading Rooms

On the suggestion of the Union representatives, it was agreed that three rooms in the East Wing, which became available this term, should be used as reading and quiet rooms; if needed, they will be available for society meetings in the evenings. It was also agreed that the two private dining rooms can be used as reading rooms when not required for other purposes. A weekly timetable will be put up on the outer door of these two rooms showing the use of the rooms for that week.

Booking of Rooms

A new procedure for booking rooms for purposes other than teaching or research was agreed. All rooms in Falmer House and the Physics Building (other than the Senior Common Room) should be booked through the Head Porter. If the room is free, he will give a provisional booking, and confirm it within forty-eight hours, after consulting the person immediately responsible for the room. The Senior Common Room should be booked through the Senior Common Room secretary. If catering is required, the room booking should be done in the ordinary way and the catering arranged with the Catering Officer.

Lost Property

All losses of personal property should be reported immediately to the Head Porter.

Union Rooms

During the renovations in Stanner House, it has been found that the Vice-Chancellor's room has been affected by dry rot. While the repairs are being carried out, the Vice-Chancellor will move temporarily into the rooms in Falmer House designated as Union rooms. It is expected that he will remain there for at least a month.

The President of the Union is to have an office in the south east corner of Falmer House. The Union General Office will for the moment be in the same room as last term.

Catering

The loss on catering services in Falmer House will be at least £14,000 this academic year. This loss will have to be met by the University at the expense of other services. It is hoped that, by various economies, this loss will not rise. The Council is to ask the Senior Common Room to limit the hours of opening in the Senior Common Room bar to from 12.30 p.m. to 2.00 p.m. Special arrangements would be made for large evening functions and facilities may be provided for evening service in the Senior Common Room from the Junior Common Room bar.

BUILDINGS

A start has been made on the work of tree thinning and surgery in front of Falmer House and between Falmer House and the Arts Building.
BUILDINGS (Cont.)

A path is to be made by the side of the screen wall to the Kitchen Yard, which will give access from the Temporary Arts Building to the cloisters of Falmer House.

A scheme has been recommended to the Council for a new access road to the east elevation of Falmer House.

UNDERGRADUATE MEDICAL SERVICE

Dr. N. Malleson, Director of the Research Unit on Student Problems in the University of London, has been advising the University on the creation of an undergraduate Health Service. His conclusions have been recommended for approval by the Council. It is proposed that eventually there will be a full-time Director of the Service. In the meantime, two doctors are to attend the University for two sessions a week during term (see Bulletin No. 2, page 8). Dr. Malleson further proposed that a psychiatrist should be available for discussions at least once a fortnight. Work is in hand to create a Temporary Medical Centre in the Physics Building.

ATHLETICS COMMITTEE

The Senate has set up a joint Committee of faculty and students to consider problems relating to the provision of athletic facilities over the next five or ten years.

The members of this Committee are Mr. H.R. Kedward (Chairman), Dr. R.A. Jackson and Mr. H.C. Jones as faculty members and Mr. R. Dow and Mr. D. Parry as union representatives.

FRESHERS' CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

The following Committee has been set up in order to organise activities during the first week of the Autumn Term 1963: Professor J.F. Corbett (Faculty Adviser), Miss Brigid Geary (Chairman), Mr. H.C. Jones, Miss Veronica Lyle and Mr. P. Silverthorn.
VACATION WORK

N.U.S. Vacation Work

Anyone in need of help or information regarding vacation work should contact Diana Dawes or John Lambert, who would also be glad of any information relevant to obtaining vacation work abroad, (with or without work permits). If anyone has any knowledge of sources of such work will they please contact them as soon as possible.

UNION NEWS

From the Secretary

Co-operation is needed. We have not got enough money to do what we want. But, in the meantime you are asked to—

Support social events - in doing so you will benefit societies financially.

Make full use of the facilities we have, especially at week-ends.

Read notices!

Make a personal decision to contribute to University life, maintaining a healthy balance between work and society activities - it consists of both.

And make this Union, which is, after all, you - the under-graduates and graduates, play a vital part in the whole Sussex community.

Could someone start a newspaper so that ideas and opinions could be expressed, not only on what has been done but also on what should be done?

Elections are due to be held this term. There will be a by-election for the Union Secretary on 6th February, and for the Assistant Secretary and fifteen Committee members on 8th February.

Now is the time to be thinking seriously about who would best represent you, and look out for notices of procedure.

R.P.

NOTES

University Chaplain

The Rev. D.T. Jenkins, University Chaplain, will be available from Monday to Thursday in Room No. 17 in the Temporary Arts Building.

Tel: Internal 244 External Extension 17.
Free Church Chaplain

The Rev. Fred Roberts had had to relinquish the post of honorary Free Church Chaplain to the University of Sussex. The local Free Church Federal Council have appointed the Rev. Ernest Clipsham, M.A., B.D., to take his place. Mr. Clipsham is the minister of the Central Baptist Church, Brighton; his address is 7 Chatsworth Road, Brighton 5.

University Sermon

It has been decided that the Chaplain’s Sermon delivered at the University Church Service on 21st October, 1962 should be printed so as to be available for wide distribution.

Public Lectures by Faculty Members

Although professors in this University will not give formal inaugural lectures, they will be invited to deliver public lectures on aspects of their fields of interest. Because of the heavy burden of internal duties at this stage in the University’s development, this programme of public lectures will not be introduced until the session 1963-64.

*************

The Vice-Chancellor has been appointed chairman of a committee to guide the B.E.C. in the provision of adult education programmes.

The Order of Merit has been conferred on Sir Basil Spence R.A., the University architect.

The University of Edinburgh is to confer the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity on the Rev. Daniel Jenkins, the University Chaplain.

Mr. Stephen Yeoc, a research student in history at the University, has been selected to be the Labour candidate for Hornsey in the next general election.

ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY TEACHERS

The following officers have been elected for the University of Sussex branch of the A.U.T. — Dr. A.M. Rose (President), Professor D.E. Scott (Treasurer), Mr. A. Blamire (Secretary), Dr. R.A. Jackson, Mr. G. Lockwood, Professor K.F. Smith, Mrs. K. Trustrun, Mr. M. Warner.
Now linked by telephone to the library headquarters at Stanmer, the Falmer library can hardly recall the difficult days last October when the only way of communicating with Stanmer was by going over in person. Other problems have also been solved: some remain.

We did not, and still do not, have enough books, but we have been adding four or five hundred a week to the Falmer shelves, and there are, of course, thousands more at Stanmer. We have tried to meet all urgent needs, but some important works, which are only available second-hand, remain elusive. The fact that some books are rarely on the shelves seems to encourage some readers to say we do not have them at all — use of the catalogue will often vindicate the library even if it does not console or satisfy a would-be reader. The catalogue will also show a reader if a particular author, Sartre or Rousseau, for instance, is to be found in more than one section. Despite the limited choice, about 750 books were issued each week — and 997 were issued in two days to 230 readers for the vacation. (A further 250 were issued from the \( \Delta \) collection.) No day was particularly popular for borrowing, but Saturday mornings were always quiet. Incidentally, we know that the issue system is as cumbersome for readers as it is for us: we use it, as do most universities, because it provides more information than do the simpler systems used in public libraries. It enables us, for instance, to tell enquirers at once who has a particular book out on loan.

Upstairs in the reading-room there are now 125 chairs, more than it can comfortably contain, and when more are brought in for extra readers, lack of table space raises another problem. In view of the demand for certain books we were surprised that more people did not use the reading-room during the evening, when they were usually available. We came to expect about 70 readers at 11.30 a.m., 60 at 1.30 p.m., 70 at 3.00 p.m. and 50 at 5.00 p.m., with peaks of up to a hundred often being reached at any of these times. After 6.30 p.m., however, there were rarely 25 people there (once only two), and by 8.30 p.m. double figures were unusual. Closing at 9.00 p.m. was said to break the evening up awkwardly: this term we shall stay open till 10.00 p.m. Another reason for undergraduates not using the reading room may have been that some of the books most in demand had been borrowed illicitly. About a dozen different books were missing each day, naturally annoying undergraduates who arrived at 9.00 a.m. to try and make sure of a particular title.

Throughout the term readers and would-be readers made many comments and suggestions. We hope that we shall continue to hear criticisms of the library service — and we hope too that we shall be seen to act on at least some of them.

A.N.P.
Henry Pelham, a cousin of the famous Duke of Newcastle purchased the land of Stanmer probably in 1721. He began building his mansion in the following year, keeping detailed accounts, which still exist, until his death in 1727.

The architect employed for the house was a Frenchman by birth, a Nicholas Dubois. He had come to architecture via military engineering, having served as a bombardier in Spain and as an engineer in Flanders. In 1715 he translated and edited the writings of Palladio and later became "Surveyor to his Majesty's Works".

For designing Stanmer House he was paid at a rate of 6 per cent of the total cost of £14,200, his fee being £736. He seems to have had trouble with the servants at Stanmer, who impatiently called him a "French son of a bitch". He rejoined with the protest that he had never "acted contrary to the rules of a liberal Education, a man of Honour, an old officer to the King, and a Gentleman born, as I am".

Nearly a million bricks were made for the house with its farm and outbuildings, but it was faced with stone from an old house at Lindfield, bought and demolished by Henry Pelham.

This economy is reflected in the severe and dignified treatment of the exterior, the south front of which is quite plain without even the central projection and pediment which relieve the entrance facade. The balustrade round the roof and the small porch date from the early nineteenth century, while the inner library was added to the north end about one hundred years ago.

Thomas Pelham, a merchant, Henry's brother and heir, died in 1737. His son, again Thomas, may have continued to decorate the house. On the death of the Duke of Newcastle in 1768, Thomas inherited the title of Baron Pelham of Stanmer. In 1801 he was created Earl of Chichester, but died four years later at the age of 76. His son, the second Earl, was Home Secretary in the Addington Ministry. From 1826 to 1896, Stanmer was ruled by the worthy third Earl, distinguished by an interest in church affairs and by his holding of the Lord-Lieutenancy of Sussex. In 1926, the sixth and seventh Earls died tragically within a few days of each other.

In 1947 Brighton Corporation bought Stanmer House and Park of 50,000 acres for nearly a quarter of a million pounds. The house stood idle until taken over as the administrative offices of the University.

The rooms are now in the process of being restored. The entrance hall, in the robust "Board of Works" style, with a massive stone chimney piece and ornamental festoon, worked by William Wilton, a London plasterer, leads to the Inner hall, notable for the staircase constructed by Robert Bostin, a London joiner, who charged £35 for his handiwork. The drawing room is in the lighter Neo-Classical style made popular by Robert Adam at the end of the eighteenth century. These rooms are now completed, unlike the dining-room, which still lacks a ceiling. With the aid of £2,500, half the cost of restoration, granted by Brighton Corporation, this room will eventually appear with a ceiling in the lively and vigorous French style, which became popular towards the mid-eighteenth century, and a screen of columns dividing off one end of the room.

It is fitting that Stanmer House should have been the starting point of a University which exists to fulfill the ideals of its builders, the "rules of a liberal Education".

S.M.
Visitors to the University have included:

Professor Helmut Viebrock (Governor Rector of University of Frankfurt);

Professor E.J. Borg Constenzi and Mr. L.M. Pace (Royal University of Malta);

Professor Kathleen Coburn (Professor of English at the University of Toronto);

Dr. N. Malleson (Student Health Advisor);

Dr. C. Jelliffe (Deputy Director (Grants) of the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research);

Sir Harry Mulvillle (Secretary to the Committee of the Privy Council for Scientific and Industrial Research).

Groups of visitors have included:

Members of the American Embassy Vives Club;

A delegation of educationalists from Yugoslavia;

Members of Wiston Park Conference;

Members of the Hospital Physicists Association;

Members of the Sussex Branch of the Mathematical Association.

Future visitors:

Professor C.A. Mosco (London School of Economics and Political Science) on Tuesday, 29th January;

Dr. Myers (Cultural Attaché at the American Embassy) on Thursday, 31st January;
